A Visual Link To Healing

Do you have a loved one in the hospital or hospice? This stained glass angel print will add color and beauty anywhere. You add the frame to make a wall hanging or table display.

The Stained Glass Angel

The print is a detailed photograph of a stained glass panel that has been in our clinic since 2000. A robed angel is supporting the earth as her feathered wings stretch across bands of colored light. The photograph is vibrant and uplifting, also peaceful and balanced.

Message card and envelope

Printed on textured paper, the front of the message card reads:

"VISUAL REIKI ENERGIZED ART

This stained glass angel has been in our clinic since 2000 and is for many a symbol of relief and relaxation. Angels are messengers of divine transformative energy. William

All of us have the capacity to help ourselves or others heal with simple touch. Just place your hands gently and let the love flow from your center. Love and gratitude flowing are what I keep in my mind while performing Reiki for patients and family. Mary"

You may write your message inside the card.

Print and message card are in a plastic sleeve that can make a temporary table display.

The photograph and card measure 7.5 x 11.5 inches and are easy to mail in envelopes available at the Post Office.

Visual Reiki Energized Art - a healing bonus!

Your photograph and message card will be individually hand energized with Reiki by Reiki practitioners William Wallis and Mary S. Wallis L.Ac. The life enhancing effect of Reiki will be forever connected to these images.

Reiki is an intelligent healing source, requiring nothing of the receiver; a universal (or source) energy that supports the body's innate healing abilities.

About us.

We are William and Mary Wallis. We have been attuned to Reiki since 1989. William was a stained glass artist for ten years and now manages this website. Mary is a meridian therapy acupuncturist. Mary recently reconnected with Jeannie Greening, our original teacher, and became attuned to teach Reiki. Jeanne Greening's lineage is: Dr. Mikao Usui (founder of Reiki), Dr. Chujiro Hayashi, Hawayo Takata, Phyllis Lei Furumoto, Ojela Frank, and Jeanne's teacher Ruth Tishler.

Basic information on Reiki

From the National Center for Complementary and Alternative Medicine (click for link), funded by the National Institutes of Health:

Reiki is based on the idea that there is a universal (or source) energy that supports the body's innate healing abilities. Practitioners seek to access this energy, allowing it to flow to the body and facilitate healing.

People use Reiki for relaxation, stress reduction, and symptom relief, in efforts to improve overall health and well-being. Reiki has been used by people with anxiety, chronic pain, HIV/AIDS, and other health conditions, as well as by people recovering from surgery or experiencing side effects from cancer treatments. Reiki has also been given to people who are dying (and to their families and caregivers) to help impart a sense of peace.

Training in traditional Reiki has three degrees (levels), each focusing on a different aspect of practice. In first-degree training, students learn to perform Reiki on themselves and on others. In second-degree training, students learn to perform Reiki on others from a distance. Some students seek master-level (third-degree) training. A Reiki Master can teach and initiate students.

Do not use Reiki as a replacement for proven conventional care or to postpone seeing a doctor about a medical problem.
